Significance of majlis -e - shura and mutual consultation

Shura as a means to Allah's mercy his holy

Shura as a Means to Allah's Mercy

His Holiness (aba) said that the example of the Holy Prophet (sa) seeking consultation was surely to guide us right and to establish unity in his people. It is narrated that when the Qur'anic verse about mutual consultation was revealed, the Holy Prophet (sa) said that this had been made a mercy for his people. Therefore, one who consults will receive blessings, whereas those who don't consult cannot be saved from humiliation. Hence, although the Holy Prophet (sa) was exempt from this, he still established the example of mutual consultation in order to guide us.

'And if you try to count the favours of Allah, you will not be able to number them.

Surely Allah is Most Forgiving,

Merciful' (The Holy Qur'an 16:19)

The Responsibilities of the Shura Delegates

His Holiness (aba) said that the Shura delegates must remember that every Ahmadi has pledged loyalty to the Caliphate, and thus, they must fulfil this pledge to the utmost degree. Just as the Caliph must abide by the commandment of seeking consultation and being kind hearted, those who are consulted also have the responsibility of doing the same, and giving their suggestions with the purest of intentions. The Shura delegates should reflect as to the level of their righteousness. It is narrated that Hazrat Ali (ra) said that only the intelligent and those given to worship. This is the standard required of the delegates. In fact, this is also guidance for those who elect the Shura representatives. They should select those who seem to be capable of giving sound counsel and are devoted to worship. When this is the spirit in which the representatives are selected, then a clear distinction is visible in the suggestions that they make.

His Holiness (aba) said that whilst giving suggestions and expressing opinions, the Shura delegates should not become influenced by someone else, they should not consider their personal friendships in the opinions they express, nor should they change their own opinions for fear of anything else. Rather, they should give their opinions whilst keeping righteousness at the forefront of their minds. They should remember that God knows what is in their hearts and what their actions are. They should be fearful of the fact that if they do not act to attain the pleasure of God, then they could incur His displeasure.
